

NUTRITION NEWS

Choosing Vegan food and farming whenever possible helps protect fertile land, protect fresh water reserves and cut green house emissions. Following a Vegan diet that includes fresh fruits, vegetables, legumes, whole grains, oils and nuts can be very beneficial from a health standpoint. Eating antioxidant rich foods can cut your health risks for cancer, diabetes and obesity.

Eat healthy!

Health, Nutrition and the Environment®